

Raising Life Loving Kids

Introduction:

The upper elementary and middle school ages have been shown to be one of the most important ages to reach the young student. Often this can be a crucial time to reach teenagers for Christ. Touching their hearts for the unborn baby can last them a lifetime. Here's what one adult whose parents were very active pro-lifers wrote:

“When I was a child, a young friend decided to hide in our garage. She found some pictures of an aborted baby. Many years later, as a high school student, she became pregnant. She told me that she was pressured to abort her son, but after having seen those pictures she could not do it. It is important for children to become pro-life at an early age because earlier opinions determine what new information they later believe or reject.”
